

APPOINTMENT DAY OBSERVED

Veterans and Friends Celebrate
50th Anniversary.

Col. D. J. Palmer of Iowa, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Guest of Honor.

The patriotic exercises held Friday evening in the assembly hall of the high school building in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the day on which Lee surrendered to Grant at Appomattox Court House, Va., April 9, 1865, were honored by the attendance of the commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, Col. D. J. Palmer of Iowa, Colonel Palmer in his testimonial address not only interested the veterans and their friends, but by his well made himself a part of the high school students. The exercises were opened with a song, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," followed by the high school orchestra following which Principal J. R. Colburn turned the meeting over to G. P. Martin, commander of Standard Post "Reveille" was played by trumpeters from Fort Ethan Allen, who also sounded "Assembly," "Retreat" and brought the exercises to a very solemn close with "Taps" after which the audience joined in singing two verses of "America." The order, which was issued by the commander-in-chief of the Grand Army to all posts proclaiming a celebration of this anniversary day in history, was read by Phillips Bell.

The first speaker of the evening was Mayor A. S. Brown. He was followed by the Rev. J. P. Rand, who characterized the occasion as the golden jubilee of peace between North and South, whose men were both sincere in the fight which they waged on honest convictions. It was not the occasion, he said, for a discussion of the merits of the first shot fired, but from that lesson should be taken that all should make the effort to live good, proper and temperate lives whereby they might prove their love of the country for which so much blood had been shed.

The Rev. L. C. Smart spoke of the surrender of Lee as a thing which would never be forgotten again in this country as another occasion was an unimpaired and a part of the excellent feeling which has existed between North and South. Rev. J. P. Smith, an alumnus of the high school and college, dwelt on the terrible cost of life which the war caused to both North and South and of the lessons to be taken from the many terrible battles.

Commander Palmer was then introduced. He kept the audience in a state of laughter with his witty stories of war life. He spoke of the possibility of General Grant, who did not take the sword from General Lee at the time of his surrender but told him to leave it. He allowed Lee's officers to keep their rifles and instructed his men to take their rifles home for farm work. This act of grace was a very rare one, he said, and it was the only one of the kind in the world's history. The thing for the men of the Grand Army to do today is to extend the right hand of friendship to the veterans of the south and men who are ready to do this. He said that the only way to do this was to be kind and generous.

ONLY SIXTEEN,
GIRL VERY SICKTells How She Was Made
Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

New Orleans, La.—"I take pleasure in writing these lines to express my gratitude to you. I am only 16 years old and work in a tobacco factory. I have been a very sick girl but I have improved wonderfully since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and am now looking fine and feeling a thousand times better."

—Miss AMELIA JAQUILLARD, 3901 Touhoupoulas St., New Orleans, La.

St. Clair, Pa.—"My mother was alarmed because I was troubled with suppression and had pains in my back and side, and severe headaches. I had pimples on my face, my complexion was sallow, my sleep was disturbed, I had nervous spells, was very tired and had no ambition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has worked like a charm in my case and has regulated me. I worked in a mill among hundreds of girls and have recommended your medicine to many of them."—Miss ESTELLE MAQUIRE, 110 Thwing St., St. Clair, Pa.

There is nothing that teaches more than experience. Therefore, such letters from girls who have suffered and were restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be a lesson to others. The same remedy is within reach of all.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by woman and held in strict confidence.

Following his talk the applause was so emphatic that he was obliged to respond with several songs.

Superintendent Chittenden in very brief remarks paid a glowing tribute to the veterans and spoke of the schools and churches to turn out patriotic graduates who would be a credit to their country as citizens. Charles E. Putney, a veteran of the Civil War, and who holds a warm place in the hearts of not only the young people who attend his classes at the high school but who is also revered by those already graduated, was to have spoken on behalf of the Grand Army. He stated that his tools had already been well cared for by Commander Palmer and contained his remarks. He thought the veterans' friends and especially the school children for their assistance in making the exercises a complete success.

Patriotic songs during the evening were sung by the high school students. The hall was very attractive in the line of large flags.

FIREMAN BREAKS A LEG.

James McGrath, Injured Choking
Fence at a Grass Fire.

The most serious accident to two firemen occurred Saturday afternoon. James McGrath, a fireman of the city, was injured while fighting a grass fire. He was choking and was unable to breathe. He was taken to the hospital and is now recovering.

STRAIGHTENED HIM OUT.

J. P. Jones, Boathouse, Ark., writes: "I had a severe case of kidney trouble and could do no work at all. Foley's Kidney Pills straightened me out at once. The same story is told by thousands of others: weak back, rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles yield quickly. Safe and effective. J. W. O'Sullivan. (adv.)"

ACCEPTS THE CALL

The Rev. C. C. Adams Coming to First Church June 20.

Has Had Remarkable Success in Pastoralates at Hinesburg and Essex Junction—Fourteen Years in Chittenden County.

A call to the First Church of this city has been accepted by the Rev. C. C. Adams, at present pastor of the First Congregational Church of Essex Junction. Mr. Adams will commence work in the new field June 20. Mr. Adams was graduated from Dartmouth College in the class of 1895 and from the Chicago Theological Seminary in 1899, having studied law between college and seminary. In his pastoralates at Hinesburg and later at Essex Junction Mr. Adams has had fourteen years of work in Chittenden county. His work in both places has been attended with remarkable success. In Essex Junction it has resulted in a remarkable enlargement of the church establishment and extension of the church work. The inspiring character of his preaching has made him widely known in his own denomination, and has brought him repeated calls to larger places which he desires to stay by the Essex Junction church until it should be well started with its new equipment would not permit him to accept. He has been active in the social and recreational work of Vermont and is generally known throughout the State.

Mr. Adams' list of acceptance follows: Hon. Charles P. Smith, Chairman, Committee First Church, Burlington, Vt.

or scientific, it is the language of the "prophecy." It is the book of prophecy. And in teaching, with the Bible, one should try to convey impressions, to stir up ideals, and to give spiritual confidence.

FIRST TO JOIN G. A. R.
Interesting Facts from History Read on 50th Anniversary.

The 50th anniversary of the founding of the Grand Army of the Republic occurred last week. To celebrate the event exercises were held by the Woman's Relief Corps to which the veterans were invited. A carefully compiled history of the Grand Army, prepared by the late Col. W. L. Greenleaf, was read by Mrs. W. P. Hall, president of the local W. R. C., extracts from which follow:

The first person from Vermont to join the Grand Army of the Republic was Gen. George J. Stannard, who was enrolled at Washington in 1867. George H. Biglow and T. S. Peck were the first to join in Vermont.

The first post organized in Vermont was at St. Johnsbury, the second at Burlington, July 6, 1865, with General Foster as commander. Stannard Post No. 2, at Burlington, was the first in the department in point of continuous existence.

On April 6, 1868, Major H. P. Stevenson of Illinois assisted by Captain Phelps organized the first post of the Grand Army of the Republic at Springfield, Ill., with Major Stevenson as commander.

The order having extended into other States a call was issued for a national convention to be held at Indianapolis, Ind., November 23, 1868. At this convention Gen. Stephen A. Hurlbut of Illinois was elected the first commander-in-chief and a national organization was effected.

RAPID RISE OF THE JITNEY

Busy Bus Has Yet to Appear in Burlington.

Already in Rutland and Malone—Has Raced across Continent Neck and Neck with Regulations Aiming to Control It.

The jitney bus has yet to appear in Burlington. The jitneys are talking about it and no one is sure that plans are not being made to introduce the establishment of jitney routes. The man who said the jitney would not last a year is just as positive that the proprietor of a jitney will lose every cent he has if he tries to run one about Burlington and carry passengers for a nickel.

The jitney, it should be explained, is the offspring of the automobile. It is a small, compact, of course, a large number of discarded cars, so broken down that private owners would not risk using them. The whole supply of these cars were rolled out from the scrap heaps and put to work as jitney buses.

The city fathers took note of that situation and decided that the customers were entitled to safe rides. They ordered that all jitneys must be inspected at the city automobile garage once in two weeks. The city garage experts checked up as to the steering gear, the brakes, the wheels and other items affecting safety, but took no note of engine condition or other matters not involving the question of safe riding.

There was a great outcry against this plan of inspection, as the jitney customers feared it was a plan to put the jitneys out of business. The inspectors were made without cost to the jitney drivers, however, an opposition soon followed away. So far all regulations have been continued to making the jitney safe. A comprehensive plan of regulation was dropped a few days before a local election held last Monday as the politicians feared the effect of the plan on the voters.

STREET CAR MEN LAID OFF.
John Gillespie, police commissioner of Detroit, said that the jitney men in practice in Detroit of paralleling the street car lines and stopping between every street car and the riding on a passenger. This forced the would-be passengers to wait a long time for a street car to the city. The city council, he said, voted a regulation to the effect that jitneys could not come within 75 feet of a street car taking on or letting off passengers.

President William D. Mahon of the Automobile Association of Street and Electric Railway Operators of America endorsed the regulation brought to the meeting of the Safety First Association that the jitney buses have a right of way on the streets. He said that his association was planning a nationwide campaign against the jitney because he considered them a danger to the street car business. He said that the street car men would urge in every city that as a matter of fact, the jitney drivers should be compelled to get up a bond of $100,000 to indemnify the victims of accidents due to them.

WILL SCATTER MORGANS
Horses in which Joseph Battell Took So Much Pride.

Although officers of the Morgan Horse Club urged the executors of the Joseph Battell estate to have the sale of Morgan horses belonging to the estate held in New York, it was decided to have it in Middlebury in the hope that some of the fine stock might remain in Vermont. The sale will take place on Tuesday, April 20, at the Battell farm east of Middlebury village where the horses may be inspected at any time.

The sale will include some famous animals, known wherever the Morgan horse is admired and loved, says the Middlebury Register. Scotland was achieved by Mr. Battell and was valued by him at $100,000. He is the winner of many first prizes, including the first championship for stallions of any age at the Breckton Fair in England.

At the same fair Ben Lamont, owner of the second prize.

Other stallions in the sale are Vermont and Ray State, own brothers, the former foaled in 1897 and the latter in 1898. Both are very good animals, admired as a saddle horse. Motion Jr., a young horse of superior trotting action, Grand Mountain, five years old, when sold for $10,000, was purchased at the Breckton fair in 1894. Victory, an impressive, large chestnut four-year-old, and several others equally well bred.

The list of blood mares and fillies is headed by Margaret, dam of Red Oak, who was purchased by the government and of three horses in this sale, others are Anna, bred by Denning Allen and a valuable brood mare. Most of the mares are beautiful bays, of striking likenesses to the famous trotter, Goldsmith Maid. Beauty, a handsome chestnut, with excellent road action, who took first prize at the Addison county fair in 1912. Nestor, awarded first premium for Morgan mares at Breckton in 1912, and a number of others down to yearling colts.

TEMPERANCE AND THE SENATE.
(From the Springfield Republican.)

The temperance forces of the State are after the Massachusetts Senate with a sharp attack. Asserting that all temperance legislation has been put to sleep there, the anti-saloon league calls for a stand on behalf of the sober citizen, which, in its original form, provided that no licensed dealer could transport or deliver liquor in his own conveyance into non-licensed territory. The bill passed the House, and in the Senate an amendment tacked on the words "unless licensed to
